Cultivate a Pleasant Voice—A Plain Woman Can Become Perfectly Charming If She Has Cultivated Her Voice—Do Not Worry and Fuss Over Little Things If You Would Be Free From Wrinkles—The New Collar—Socks For Baby.

CULTIVATE A PLEASANT VOICE.

Once upon a time there was a girl who undertook to make her voice over.

She had listened with horror to the voices of the women around her. She made up her mind that whatever charms nature had denied her, no one should hear from her lips the harsh, strident, high-pitched tones that jar the atmosphere around every gathering of American women.

She had no particular gift in the way of a voice herself. But with Shakespeare's admonition for a text—"that excellent thing in woman, a voice that is ever gentle, soft and low"—she deliberately set to work to mellow, soften, refine and make musical her speaking voice.

The result of her experiment is that people now ask to be introduced to "that girl with the beautiful voice."

Strangers stop to listen when she speaks. Her voice has become a more magnetic charm than even a pretty face might have been. It has attracted toward her friends and acquaintances worth having.

Not that she is conscious of this, nor that she set about making over her voice with any such purpose.

She has simply made the most of her vocal powers. And the effort has brought its own reward.

And the point of this article is that any woman might do the same with her voice.

I wish I could convince her of that! I wish I could make her realize the magic of a clear, musical speaking voice, not an affected voice, but a kind, sweet, one that comes from pleasant thoughts.

Probably more men have fallen honestly in love with a beautiful voice than with even a beautiful face. And with reason. For a pretty face may mean no more than physical perfection, while a beautiful voice is nearly always an index to mind and heart.

A plain woman can become perfect by charming the minute she begins to speak. If she has cultivated her voice.

Given the choice, a wise woman would take a homely face with a beautiful voice, rather than a perfect face with a harsh and unlovely voice.

Let me repeat that this wonderful working voice is not, as many imagine, a miraculous gift. It can be acquired, as it was in the case of the young woman cited above. It takes pains and practice. And I may say that it takes a certain disposition of mind. But it can be done!

After a series of Robespierre collars, fluffy frills and flat collars of many sizes and shapes, the new upstanding collar comes as a novel change. It is very dainty, very feminine and makes a pretty finish to a V-necked or square-cut gown or bodice.

It is modeled on the familiar Medici design, and has an upstanding ruff in back, which comes around in front in soft frills. Usually it is of sheer, delicate lace, of Valenciennes, Chantilly or other kindred weaves. Though rather high in back, comparatively, these new collars terminate rather low in front.

To keep the new collar up in back it is cleverly wired and held in place. These collars are used not only on the dark silk and cloth frocks for street and afternoon wear, but they are also used to adorn the thinner gowns as well.

Usually when the fingers and hands of elbow length silk gloves wear out the uppers are comparatively new. These may be used to make socks for the baby. Place one of the socks on a glove, having the leg part of the sock and the hemmed end of the glove together. Then cut the socks after the pattern, and sew carefully into shape with flat seams. Reinforce the top to withstand the wear and tear caused by garters and safety pins.

IF YOU WOULD BE FREE FROM WRINKLES.
Often they come from imaginary care.
Do not worry over the little things.

H. Kelsey, B. S. and M. S., University of Utah, who returns from a year's work with the General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The first meeting of the faculty at Salt Lake, Sept. 9.—The first call to the football warriors at the west side will be made this afternoon or tomorrow, and Coach Richardson expects fifty of the big "hunks" of the school to appear for their football material used in the early training.

There has been some discussion about Lowell Romney and Kenneth Yates, who played on the last year's eleven. Romney has registered at the west side, but Yates is determined to go to the university. There was some report that Romney would also attend the university, and the matter was not fully settled until yesterday afternoon, when he gave out the statement that he would stick to the west side and would also try to bring Yates back to school with him. Yates would be selected to captain the 1913 team, but if he goes to the university another captain will be chosen from among Jesson, Goodrich and Romney, who are the only old men.

Looney, the star halfback of the University of Utah, has been in Ogden during the last few days and will start about the end of the week to get a line on his athletes. Romney has had a brilliant career as a player. "Wild" Ashton and Coach Dutton, the former of Granite, and the latter of the Jordan High school, will also issue their first call for practice Friday afternoon.

The teams will be more evenly matched this season than ever before and the games should be close and exciting. Coaches Richardson, Salt Lake, Romney of Ogden and Ashton of Granite were all university stars, and this will make the rivalry between their teams much greater.

INTER-SCHOOL LEAGUE CONTESTS WILL BE CLOSE

O'NEILL IS LOW BIDDER ON ASPHALT

Although the bids for paving Fowler avenue, and Twenty-fifth street from Washington to Harrison avenues were opened by the board of commissioners last evening, action was deferred until Thursday morning when Commissioner J. C. Nye, superintendent of streets, will be present. Mr. Nye was not at the meeting last evening, his time being taken up just now in gathering a crop of peaches.

The O'Neill Construction company of this city was the lowest bidder on the asphalt paving and it is more than likely that the contract will be awarded to the local company. The bids were as follows:

Fowler Avenue.
O'Neill company$4998.38
J. P. Moran5061.52
Strang & McGuire5894.42

Twenty-fifth Street.
O'Neill company$50,152.79
J. P. Moran51,017.49
Strang & McGuire57,608.20

Bids for material on the asphalt were also made and they were somewhat lower, but it is quite certain that the paving will be asphalt.

Protests against paving Lincoln avenue, from Twenty-sixth to Thirtieth street, with concrete were reported and ordered referred to the city engineer for computation, the same action being taken with protests against opening Dorey avenue.

The engineer reported that jurisdiction had been gained in sewer district 119 and he was authorized to advertise for bids.

The clerk of the municipal court reported that he collected in fines, forfeitures and fees last month the sum of $785.60 and that the amount had been turned into the city treasury.

A resolution for a sewer district on Ballantyne avenue, between Twentieth and Twenty-first streets, was passed.

The following claims were allowed and the auditor instructed to draw warrants for the amounts:

The day was occupied by informal receptions and a business session at which the secretary's report was read. According to the report the fiscal year was $1,024,702.54. TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching, itching falling hair, and a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin.

Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents in a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

INVESTIGATING THE WEEVIL
R. A. Cooley, Montana state entomologist was in Ogden yesterday with J. Edward Taylor, Utah horticultural inspector and Cecil Creel of the United States bureau of entomology.

On the results of the investigations, in fields and on railroad platforms will hinge the possible modification of the quarantine imposed by Montana against Utah because of the alfalfa weevil. Cooley will go to Montana from here and the results of his investigations will be known to him by the governor of Montana, who is expected to act on the report.

While Cooley refused to say anything as to his intentions or the report, he said that although the danger of transplanting of Utah weevil was acknowledged, it was the extent of the danger that would be investigated. So far as possible taking of weevil to Montana is concerned, he says, an ordinary human might unwittingly be the means of transporting the pest, and the only real way for any state absolutely to ward off contagion would be the absolute forbidding of all intercourse with the suspected state. But this, it is explained, cannot be done. Therefore the question is what can be done to protect Montana and yet, if possible, maintain Utah's market for her products there.

It has been suggested that if melon, peach and other products were shipped without vines, leaves or other shrubbery in clean ears, the danger would be eliminated, since weevil do not prey on fruits but confine their attention to leguminous products exclusively. But it is pointed out that when such fruits are shipped from weevil-ridden territory, there is danger of one or two of the pests flying through the car doorway.

All these matters are to be taken into consideration and it is believed that one day's inspection will acquaint the Montana entomologist with weevil conditions, at least enough for an intelligent report.

"Entomologists," says Cooley, "know that the territory of the weevil is gradually spreading and that unless some way is found to check its ravages it will spread into Montana in a very few years. No quarantine can stop the natural spread of a flying insect. But Montana has large alfalfa and hay interests and if preventive measures can be taken to retard the invasion, even for a few years, it means much to the prosperity of the Montana alfalfa raiser. On the other hand, Montana wants to be fair to Utah as far as can be done without taking unnecessary risks."

BATS IN THE SENATE CHAMBER
Washington, Sept. 9.—Bats, a black winged flock of them, invaded the senate chamber today while it was struggling toward a belated adjournment in the tariff debate and created a small panic. The excitement was mainly confined to the press gallery lounging room, but two bats, more daring than their companions, flew into the senate chamber before the doors could be closed. Several women in the visitor's galleries made hasty exits, pawing at their back hair as they fled.

James D. Preston, superintendent of the press gallery, was the first to discover the intruders. They appeared in a black swarm, and for a moment Mr. Preston considered thoughtfully whether he should dive under his desk or lead a charge against the night visitors. He chose the latter course.

"Up, men and at 'em," he cried, startling into activity a score of heavy eyed correspondents waiting for the flow of senatorial oratory to cease. At the same time Mr. Preston, wielding a copy of the revised statutes as a club, brought down his first bat. The correspondents, arming themselves with canes, folded newspapers and other weapons, joined in the fray.

Cleaners today carried out the cold remains of nearly a score of the creatures and drove out nearly twice as many into the sunlight. The animals are supposed to have come from beneath the overhanging eaves of the senate end of the capitol, attracted by the lights.

MAY ASK PRESIDENT TO APPOINT MARSHAL
Supporters of all candidates for United States marshal are said to be behind a movement to forward to Woodrow Wilson make an immediate appointment to the position of marshal, all factions agreeing to acquiesce in any choice the president may make from the various candidates under consideration. The supporters of all the candidates are still hopeful that the choice of the president may be their choice, but they are not opposed to the confirmation of any nomination the president may make.

The term of United States Marshal James H. Anderson expired on August 1st of the quarrel as soon as the tar cause of the quarrel of the Democrats over the selection of his successor. Leaders of the party in Utah have been advised that the president will be in a position to look into the matter, but he has continued in office until the bill is disposed of. The passage of the bill by the senate this afternoon will practically end the tariff worries of the president, though the bill will not be ready for the executive signature until the conference committee reports.

Meantime the merits of the candidates whose applications are on file with the department of justice have been investigated by Attorney General McReynolds. He is said to have recommended one of the candidates for appointment to the president, but the president wishes to review the claims of all the candidates before accepting the choice of the attorney general as final.
